53. Discuss the impact of context on communication. Give examples of impact from two different dimensions of context.

Answer: The ideal answer should include:

1. Communication always takes place within a context—an environment that influences the form and content of communication. The dimensions of context are cultural, social—psychological, physical, and temporal.

2. A physical context consists of the surrounding environment. For example, communication in a face-to-face conversation may differ from online communication. The social—psychological context involves roles and status in the relationship, such as a teacher—student relationship. The temporal context involves when the communication takes place. For example, if a speaker tells a joke about death to a friend just after the friend’s mother died, that joke would be received very differently than it would be at another time. The cultural dimension focuses on norms, beliefs, and attitudes. For example, in various cultures, eye contact is perceived and interpreted differently.
